President's Message

Greetings to one and all!

As your new president this is my first opportunity to address you as we look forward to the Milwaukee show in April. I have a lot to learn and ask that you excuse any mistakes that I may make, which hopefully will be few and minor. I will try to run a tight ship and with the hard work of the board and staff we can and will continue to make the CSNS show one of the finest in the country. With outstanding exhibits and a first-rate show, I don't anticipate any major problems.

I hope to meet many of you in Milwaukee. Until then, let's keep the hobby aimed at the future.

Don

Secretary's Message

Another CSNS convention is at hand. It's April 28-May 1 in Milwaukee. There is something for everyone, ranging from the bourse to educational programs to meetings of specialty groups to our world-class exhibit area. The convention schedule appears elsewhere in this issue. You can also access it on our Web site: www.centralstates.info.

The Board of Governors will meet as usual. We'll have a post-convention report on all these activities in the summer issue of The Centinel.

Our biennial election of officers is under way. Ballots were mailed during mid-February to nearly 2,200 adult members in good standing. The ballots were to be counted a week or so prior to the Milwaukee convention.

It's not too early to start thinking about the summer of 2011. That's when the ANA Summer Seminar takes place.

Central States usually provides scholarships so three individuals can attend the event in Colorado Springs, CO. Our governing board grants these scholarships during its fall meeting, applications need to be submitted yet this coming summer. The deadline is usually Aug. 1.

The application will be published in The Centinel - either this issue or the summer issue, depending upon space availability. You may also obtain an application from me. See my address in the list of board members published in the front of this issue.

This is the first issue of the year for The Centinel, so it includes our annual "honor roll" of members who mark specific anniversaries this year.

We begin with individuals who joined 20 years ago, or in 1990, and continue backward to 1960, or 50 years ago. Keep in mind these are five year increments, so members who joined during 1961, for example, will be published a year from now.

I recently spent one week without the CSNS computer, which was hit by a virus and had to go into the shop. The machine has been cleaned out and back in service, along with firewalls, etc.

I was able to use an old CSNS computer to keep records updated, etc., but could not visit the Internet. Thanks to Ray Lockwood for letting other board members know they couldn't reach me via e-mail, although I did have Bob Julian check for messages late in the week.

Jerry Lebo

From the Convention Chairman

In just a few more days the numismatic community will gather in Milwaukee for the 71st Anniversary Convention of the Central States Numismatic Society. We'll have a combination of activities that will make Milwaukee the center of attention in the world of numismatics during our event.

In addition to a 250+ booth bourse with dealers from roughly 35 states, we'll also have what has grown to become one of the most significant auction presentations on the numismatic calendar, Heritage's separate Signature Sales of both rare coins and currency. Last year the gross prices realized were in excess of $40 million for these two events. It wasn't so many years ago that no single auction company had such a sales total for their entire year.

In addition to these commercial activities, which I know are the primary reason most of our attendees participate in our convention, we also have a range of social and educational functions to make our convention something more than just a really big coin show.

Foremost among these is our educational exhibit area, once again ably presided over by our longtime exhibit chairperson, Fran Lockwood. Under Fran's guidance our exhibit area has become the model that other similar events strive to equal. I hope you will all take the time to view the exceptional presentations our educational exhibitors have assembled. There is a great deal to learn by viewing the displays they share with all of us.

Allen G. Berman, coin dealer and King of Bermania, appoints Keven Foley ambassador to the Vatican at the New York International Numismatic Convention in January.

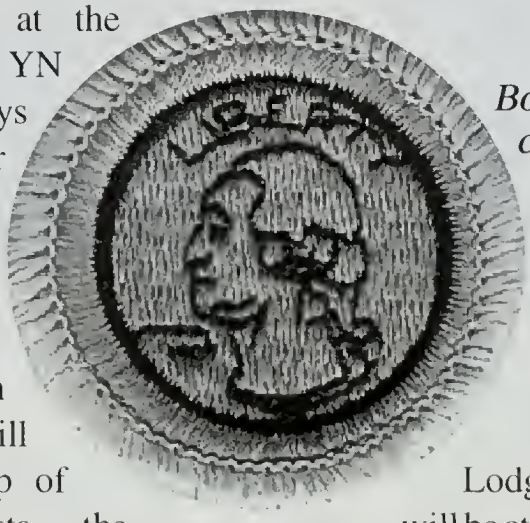
Not to be outdone, Education Director Ray Lockwood can take pride in the interesting schedule of programs and lectures he has organized. Thursday afternoon will see a talk by Coin World's Beth Deisher and Steve Roach, The Threat of Counterfeit Coins from China. We've scheduled this program for later in the afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in order to afford the greatest opportunity for a strong attendance. Plan to arrive early, as seating is limited and the subject area is one that always attracts exceptionally large audiences.

Friday will see a presentation by the Professional Numismatists Guild as part of its Share the Knowledge series. Popular speaker Wendell Wolka will follow the PNG program with his talk Ante-Bellum Banking in the Midwest. Wendell is both an informed and entertaining speaker and his talks attract a rapt audience.

Saturday will see Bob Fritsch give his always well-received talk, Evolution of a Collector, while Walt Ostomecki will hold forth on Dumb Coins. Walt will be followed by the respected numismatic authority Tom DeLorey, talking on Dealing in Coins from a Former Collector's Point of View.

Sunday, the day after our bourse activities close, will see Bob Evans give a daylong seminar, The S.S. Central America – Its History, Sinking, Rediscovery, Salvaging and Numismatic Significance. This will be a repeat of the program he gave last year in Cincinnati that played to a capacity audience and left those in attendance thirsting for even more information. Bob was part of the expedition that rediscovered and salvaged this fabled treasure ship. His talk is as close to being there as one can hope for. In fact, his program last year in Cincinnati was so popular that Education Director Ray Lockwood tells me we already have quite a number of repeat attendees from last year. If you want to spend an afternoon getting really turned on about numismatics, I can't imagine a better way. Advance registration is required, so please contact Ray Lockwood, whose information appears elsewhere in this issue, to enroll.

The Milwaukee Numismatic Society, permanent awardee for the Stack's Traveling Trophy, will sponsor a Boy Scout Merit Badge Clinic on Saturday morning. This will be the 30th such affair conducted by members of this longtime CSNS member club. Over the years quite literally several thousand scouts have earned their coin collecting merit badges through this program. In addition to the scout clinic, CSNS Governor Bruce Benoit will be conducting activities for Young Numismatists at the convention, including a YN Treasure Hunt, an always popular part of our CSNS conventions.



Boy Scouts can earn the coin collecting merit badge at the Saturday morning clinic. The badge features the obverse of a Washington quarter.

In addition, groups holding meetings in conjunction with the convention will include the Fellowship of Christian Numismatists, the Liberty Seated Collectors Club, Women in Numismatics and the American Numismatic Association District Delegates.

The CSNS social scene will once again see our Friday morning Club Representatives Breakfast, where numismatic activists are invited by the CSNS Board for a networking and idea-sharing session. Our traditional Awards Breakfast will once again take place on Saturday morning. It will see the presentation of our exhibit awards, as well as various named awards, such as the Elston Bradfiled-Roland Finner Literary Award, the Daniel C. Parker Young Numismatists Literary Award, the Stack's Award and the John J. Pittman Award, as well as the always eagerly anticipated Best of Show Award.

This year we'll also be inaugurating a new tradition, a Thursday evening by-invitation-only reception, hosted by the Board of Governors, at which our educational exhibitors and speakers will be the guests of honor. The educational aspects of our convention are an important focus of Board interest. The reception is a way of letting the many people who contribute their efforts to these endeavors know how much they are appreciated.

Lodging for our convention will be at an exceptional property, the Milwaukee Hilton City Center, just across the street from the Midwest Airlines event site and connected to it via an enclosed skywalk. Call (414) 271-7250 and mention rate code "CSNS" for our special $137 rate. The Hilton is an older hotel that has been kept up to fully modern standards and beyond and will provide an exceptional lodging experience, somewhat reminiscent of the Hilton Netherland Plaza in Cincinnati at our 70th Anniversary Convention.

Welcome to Milwaukee and best wishes for a successful 71st Anniversary Convention.

United State Presidents on Philippine Coinage

Silent Reminders of the Unique Relationship of Two Countries

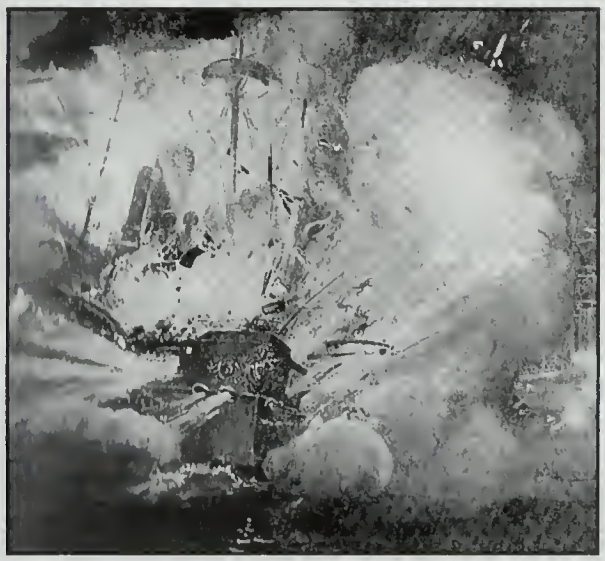
By Steven M. Bieda

The recent passing of former Philippine President Corazon Aquino, brings to mind a unique "series" of coins commemorating United States presidents along with Philippine presidents on Philippine coinage. Four commemorative coins, three silver and one gold, depict two American presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Ronald Reagan, along with three Philippines presidents, Manuel Quezon, Ferdinand Marcos, and Aquino.

The coins were all issued for different reasons, but they provide silent and fascinating witness to the unique individuals and events of their day. All were issued while their respective individual subjects were alive and wielding political power. With the Aug. 1, 2009, death of Aquino from cancer, all the individuals depicted will now only be known through history. This article will examine the individuals and events associated with the issuance of the four coins, with special emphasis on the Philippine presidents as they are likely to be lesser known than FDR and Reagan.

The Philippine archipelago is made up of 7,107 islands and is located in southeastern Asia between the Philippine Sea and the South China Sea, east of Vietnam. [1] The Philippines became a Spanish colony in the 16th century and was acquired by the United States in 1898 as a result of the Spanish-American War.

Thus, the United States and the Philippines share a unique and intertwined history. Most numismatists are aware that from 1903-1945 the United States issued coins for use in the Philippines, first as a territory, then as a self-governing commonwealth. [2] In addition to these regular-issue coins, three silver commemorative coins were issued in 1936 to mark the change in governing status of the Philippines from a territory to a commonwealth. [3] One of the three coins depicts U.S. President Roosevelt and Philippine President



The explosion of the USS Maine on Feb. 15, 1898, precipitated the Spanish-American War.

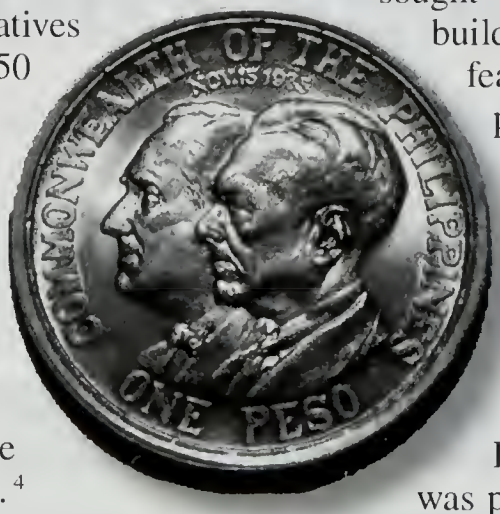
Quezon.

The 1936 commonwealth commemorative set consists of two 1 peso commemoratives and a 50 centavo coin. Mintage was 10,000 for each of the 1 peso commemoratives and 20,000 for the 50 centavo piece. The coins were produced at the Manila Mint, (M mint mark). A branch mint of the United States Mint, it holds the distinction of being the only U.S. branch mint located outside the continental United States. [4]



Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt of the U.S. and Manuel Quezon of the Philippines appear on this 1936 peso.

All three coins depict Quezon. One of the 1 pesos coins, of interest for this article, also features Roosevelt, Krause-Mishler 177 (Standard Catalog of World Coins, by Chester L. Krause and Clifford Mishler). The other two coins (another 1 peso, KM-178, and a 50 centavo, KM-176,) in the set feature Frank Murphy, U.S. high commissioner to the Philippines. The coins were struck to commemorate the creation of the Commonwealth of the Philippines on Nov. 15, 1935. The occasion was one of great pride for the Philippines, as it involved greater self-governance and was seen as an important first step toward independence. The set's issue price of was $3.13. [5]

Depending on whether one considers this an American coin or a "foreign" coin, the 1936 1 peso featuring Roosevelt is either the first foreign coin to depict a living American president or the second United States commemorative to depict a living American president. [6]

Although listed in A Guide Book of United States Coins (i.e. the "Red Book") along with the rest of the U.S. territorial series, some collectors treat this coin as a Philippine issue, albeit with special ties to the United States coinage series. Regardless of which opinion one holds, the coins are an interesting and affordable addition to a collection.

The 1 peso coin featuring Roosevelt (Jan. 30, 1882 - April 12, 1945) is often sought after by collectors building a topical coin set featuring United States presidents. [7]

Roosevelt, a Democrat, was president from March 1, 1933, to his death. He was unique among American presidents in having been elected to four terms of office. His tenure as president encompassed dramatic and tumultuous times, including the Great Depression and World War II. Significant changes in the relationship between the United States and the Philippines occurred as well. Roosevelt signed the law establishing the Philippine commonwealth, and he was president when the U.S. was driven out of the Philippines by the Japanese.

The 1 peso coin is 36 mm, composed of .800 silver and has a reeded edge. It was struck in "coin rotation," like coins struck for use in the United States. An estimated 3,000 to 4,000 were not sold at the time of the celebration and were later jettisoned into Manila Bay in 1942 to avoid seizure by the Japanese. [8]

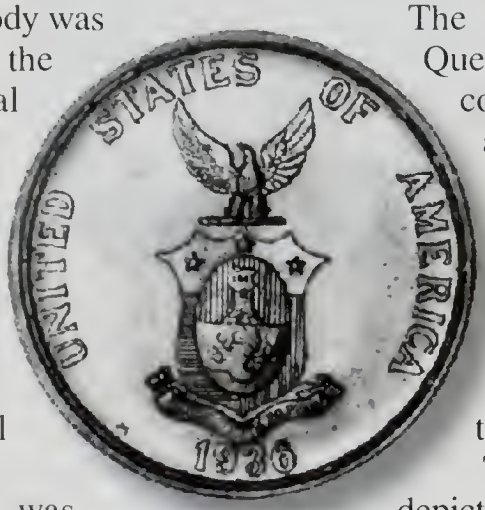
above and between the two men. [9]

Quezon (1878-1944), who is featured on all three of the commonwealth commemorative coins, was the first president of the commonwealth. In March 1942, he fled the Philippines along with General Douglas MacArthur as the Japanese invaded. [10] Sadly, Quezon did not live to see the launch of the successful effort to liberate the Philippines in October 1944. Quezon, who headed a government in exile in the U.S., died of tuberculosis on Aug. 1, 1944, in Saranac Lake, N.Y. At Roosevelt's order his body was temporarily interred in the USS Maine Memorial at Arlington National Cemetery



The reverse of the 1936 pesos was used on all commonwealth coinage.

The Maine Memorial was an ironic choice.

The memorial was dedicated in 1913 and is the final resting place of 163 American servicemen who died during the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor on Feb. 15, 1898. It consists of the main mast of the ship and features the inscribed names of the 264 sailors and marines who perished in the tragedy. Shortly after the sinking, a U.S. Naval Court of Inquiry found that a Spanish naval mine caused the explosion, and the sinking became a precipitating cause of the Spanish-American War. [11] On April 11, 1898, President William McKinley asked Congress to declare war. Thus the rallying cry "Remember the Maine - to Hell with Spain" became a war cry in the United States. Ironically, the body of the president of the Philippines was interred in a memorial to a ship whose mysterious explosion precipitated a war that resulted in the American acquisition of the Philippines. [12]

Quezon's body stayed in the Maine Memorial until it could be reinterred in the Philippines. Frank Murphy was appointed by President Harry S. Truman to lead the American delegation accompanying the body back to the Philippines, where Quezon was interred in the Manila North Cemetery. Later, following a long subscription drive to raise funds, Quezon's remains were moved again, finally coming to rest in an impressive monument in Quezon City on Aug. 19, 1979. [13]

The reverse of the FDR/ Quezon 1 peso shares common design elements and placement with the other two coins in the set. The same design was used on the reverses of all Philippine circulating issues minted from 1937 to 1945.

The reverse design depicts an American eagle perched on a shield. The shield has three stars (representing the three main island groups, Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao), a castle (representing Spain, from which the United States captured control of the Philippines) and a dolphin with sword (symbolizing Spain's conquest of the Philippines).

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA dominates the top of the reverse, the date 1936 appears at the bottom. To the left of the date appears a very small "M" mint mark. A small banner with the even smaller words COMMONWEALTH OF THE PHILIPPINES appears under the shield.

All three of the 1936 coins are available with some searching at coin shows or on Internet auction sites. Sea-salvaged specimens, which at one time traded for scrap silver prices, are also avidly collected by those seeking a unique wartime souvenir.

The Philippines achieved independence on July 4, 1946, and has continued to enjoy a unique relationship with the United States.

In 1982, in anticipation of a planned trip to the Philippines by U.S. President Reagan, the Philippine government contracted with the private Franklin Mint to produce a silver commemorative. The coin depicts conjoined busts of Reagan and Marcos. It is the first coin to depict Reagan, although the Philippines had previously issued a number of coins depicting Marcos.[14]

Ultimately, Reagan's visit was canceled, but the coin was offered for sale later that year.

The Reagan/Marcos coin, KM-235, is a 25 piso denomination. It is .500 silver, weighs 25 grams and consists of .4018 oz ASW. The Franklin Mint struck 8,000 "special uncirculated" pieces with prooflike surfaces but without frosted features. An additional 250 were produced as proofs, with frosted features.

The obverse features the busts of Marcos and Reagan, both facing right. The surnames of both men, MACROS - REAGAN encircle the top of the coin. The date, 1982, appears below the portraits. The reverse features the Philippines coat of arms, with the legend REBUBLIKA NG PILIPINAS and the denomination 25 PISO.

In 1982, Reagan, a Republican, had just completed his first year as president. He defeated Democrat Jimmy Carter in the 1980 election. During the Carter administration the relationship between the United States and the Philippines soured. Carter targeted the Philippines and the Marcos regime in his human-rights campaign.

Marcos had been president of the Philippines since being elected in 1965, beating incumbent Diosdado Macapagal by a narrow margin. Amidst charges of vote buying and election fraud, Marcos was re-elected in 1969. The Marcos regime was marred by allegations of widespread graft and corruption and an increasing disparity of wealth between the very wealthy and the very poor, leading to more crime and civil unrest.

Under the country's constitution, Marcos was banned from running for a third term in 1973. However, on Sept. 21, 1972, Marcos issued Presidential Proclamation No. 1081, in which he declared martial law, took control of the military and moved to suppress freedoms of speech and press and other civil liberties.

Marcos also dissolved the Congress of the Philippines, shut down media establishments critical of the government and arrested political opponents. Marcos used the threat of a communist menace as a pretext for seizing power; and as an avowed anti-communist, he promoted himself as crucial to the United States' fight against communism.

This 1982 25 piso coin marked an event that did not happen.

Marcos undoubtedly appreciated the election of Reagan, who essentially abandoned Carter's human-rights campaign. Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos had meet Ronald and Nancy Reagan on previous occasions, and viewed Reagan as a close personal ally. Reagan, in turn, admired the avowed anti-communist leader of the Philippines. As domestic discontent with the Marcos regime steadily built, the Philippine dictator worked to improve and maintain the support of the new United States president. Considering the United States' concern with Soviet expansionism during this period, as well as the presence of U.S. bases in the Philippines, the Reagan administration initially wanted to bolster the regime.

By 1982, though, the Macros regime was starting to lose support domestically and internationally. This support really started to unravel after opposition leader Benigno "Ninoy" Aquino was assassinated on Aug. 21, 1983, at Manila International Airport as he was returning to the Philippines from three years of exile in the United States.

The assassination shocked the world, outraged Filipinos and eventually lead to the deterioration of trust and confidence in the Marcos regime. Aquino's widow, Corazon, returned to the Philippines a couple of days later and led her husband's funeral procession of more than 2 million people, one of the largest in history.

The assassination also propelled Corazon, who had no previous political experience, into the national - and international - spotlight. As domestic discontent grew, the Marcos regime called a snap election - apparently as a means of holding power by moving up the election date.

The election was held Feb. 7, 1986, and independent poll-watcher tallies showed a clear Aquino victory. However, Marcos claimed victory, which lead to condemnations by the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines and the United States Senate. Millions of supporters of Aquino's "People Power" movement then took to the streets and were eventually supported by important elements in the Philippine military. Seventeen days later, as world media coverage was fixated on the incredible drama building in the Philippines, Reagan persuaded the ailing Marcos to resign and accept exile in Hawaii.

Aquino was formally and peacefully sworn in as president on Feb. 25, 1986. The transition from Marcos to Aquino, and in a way, President Reagan's influence with both administrations is reflected in two additional coins issued in 1986.

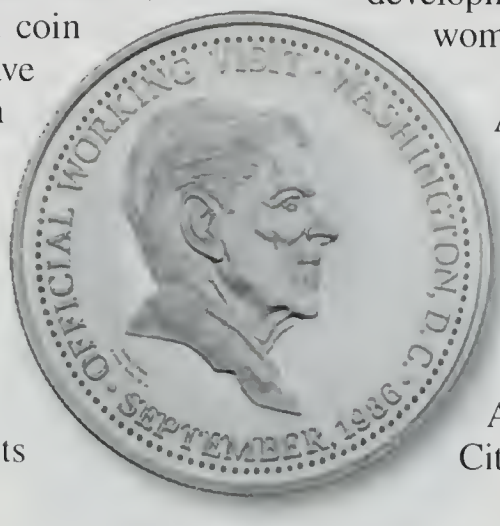
One, a silver commemorative, the other, the first gold coin depicting Reagan, have identical designs with the exception of the denominations. These two coins are basically two-headed pieces, with Reagan on one side and Aquino on the other.



Ronald Reagan and Corazon Aquino appear on this 1986 two-headed gold piece.

The obverse depicts a bust of Reagan facing right. The inscription OFFICIAL WORKING VISIT WASHINGTON D.C. SEPTEMBER 1986 encircles the periphery. The reverse depicts a bust of Corazon Aquino facing left. An inscription REPUBLIKA NG PILIPINAS encircles the upper periphery.

The silver 25 piso coin, KM-246, weighs 18.41 grams, is composed of .925 silver and .5475 oz ASW. It was struck in a brilliant frosted proof. Mintage was 1,000. The gold 2500 piso coin, KM-247, weighs 15 grams, is composed of .500 gold and .2414 oz AGW. It was coined in a brilliant frosted proof finish. With only 250 minted, it is the scarcest of the four coins examined in this article.

Aquino served as president until June 30, 1992, when she peacefully handed power over to her democratically elected successor, General Fidel Ramos. During her tenure, Aquino instituted sweeping legal, economic and constitutional reforms. She continued her political activism into her post-presidency, and also traveled abroad, giving speeches and lectures on issues of democracy, development, human rights and women's empowerment.

On March 28, 2008, the Aquino family shocked the nation with the announcement that she had colon cancer. She pursued medical treatment, but ultimately succumbed on Aug. 1, 2009, in Makati City. After a large funeral, her body was interred next to her husband's at Manila Memorial Park.

The special relationship between the United States and the Philippines continues to endure. For collectors interested in a topical collection of coins depicting U.S. presidents, the 1936 commonwealth commemorative depicting FDR/Quezon, and three issues depicting Reagan with Marcos and Aquino, offer a tangible numismatic snapshot of a particular era of U.S. - Philippine relations, and a challenging, but not too difficult or expensive collection to acquire.

A LOOK AT NEBRASKA ELONGATED COINS

By Steven C. Drake
Photos by Mitch Ernst

A few years before Mel Stark passed away, I had the opportunity to visit him at his home in Omaha. Mel was the former curator of the PhilaMatic Center at Boys Town and was instrumental in producing some of the elongated coins associated with Nebraska.

The first elongated coin design I am going to mention celebrates the Nebraska centennial. The design has an outline of the state with NEBRASKA within. Also on the design is CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION, 1867 1967 and 100 YEARS OF STATEHOOD. Mel stated that 1,000 Wheat and Memorial cents and 10 dimes were produced. Please note that these mintage figures come from Mel. Later, I ran across some information that 150 nickels were made, one of which I have in my collection. Also, I have obtained a half dollar and understand that quarters may have also been made.

Nebraska centennial elongates of 1967.

The next elongated design is a Nebraska statehood design. The design is similar to the one on a 5 cent U.S. postage stamp. It shows a steer superimposed on an ear of corn. Because the date on my cent is 1968-D, I believe the design was produced after the postage stamp was issued.

Mel was connected with elongated coins marking the Nebraska national champion football season in 1970-1971. He said there were 2,000 cents made, six Buffalo nickels, 40 Jefferson nickels, 100 silver Roosevelt dimes, 10 Mercury dimes and six silver Washington quarters. (It seems to me that Mel almost always had six silver quarters struck of every design he made.)

Nebraska Department of Roads centennial elongate of 1995.

In 1976, 2,000 cents, 100 silver Roosevelt dimes and six silver Washington quarters were made with a PhilaMatic Center design.

This design is-drawn from the U.S. Christmas stamp of 1979.

In 1977, Boys Town celebrated its 60th anniversary. Mel had 2,000 cents, 50 Roosevelt dimes and six silver Washington quarters made to commemorate the event; a single student token was also overstruck with the design.

To commemorate the 500th meeting of the Omaha Coin Club in 1979, Mel again had elongated coins made. There were 1,000 Lincoln cents, 10 Indian cents, 300 dimes (a mixture of Mercury, silver Roosevelt and clad dimes) and six silver Washington quarters.

The next issue is probably not known to many collectors. The design shows a mailbox on a post; beneath the mailbox is the word CHRISTMAS. The design is similar to the 1979 Christmas stamp. This elongated commemorates the first day cover that was issued in Omaha. Mel had other memorabilia connected with this event at his home as well. Mel did not mention the mintage of this issue.

The final elongated design Mel was connected with was for the opening of the first Byron Reed coin exhibit at Omaha's Dunham Museum (then known as the Western Heritage Museum). in 1989 Mel had 1,000 cents, eight 1891 (the year of Reed's death) Indian cents, five Liberty nickels, six Buffalo nickels, eight Jefferson nickels, six Mercury dimes, 10 silver Roosevelt dimes and six silver Washington quarters struck for the event.

The Drakes of Omaha had this ducky elongate made to celebrate the Christmas of 1991.

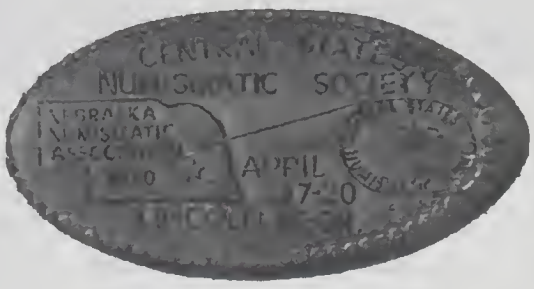
The next two elongated designs are ones that I personally oversaw the production on. In 1991 I had some personal elongated coins made with a design of a duck surrounded by CHRISTMAS 1991 FROM THE DRAKE'S OMAHA, NE. Two hundred and fifty cents were made, along with 10 each of nickels, dimes and quarters. In 1992, I was also connected with the Nebraska Numismatic Association's commemoration of 125 years of Nebraska statehood. Three hundred and fifty cents, 11 nickels, 10 dimes and 10 quarters were struck for this event.

Roger Winkelhake of Lincoln, NE., had elongated cents and nickels made in the 1970s and again in the 1990s to advertise his coin business. Cents were produced in 1976 and the early 1990s. The nickels were made in 1978. The nickel had a different design from the pennies. In 1995, Roger oversaw the production of an elongated cent commemorating the centennial of the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Dealer Roger Winkelhake of Lincoln, NE., struck elongated store cards in the 1970s and '90s.

In 1969 the SAC-Midwest Coin Club issued an elongated cent for its club. The Nebraska Numismatic Association had an elongated design for cents, nickels, dimes and quarters made for the nation's Bicentennial in 1976.

In 1980, the Central States Numismatic Society held its annual convention in Lincoln, NE. There was a rolling machine at the convention, so several different coins were used to make elongated items.



One of the earliest Central States elongates was struck for the 1980 convention in Lincoln.

There are many different elongated coins connected with Nebraska that are not mentioned in this article. Collectors can go to www.pennycollector.com to find out where present-day elongated machines are located in Nebraska. The Web site lists machines in Alliance, Ashland, Hastings, Hebron, Kearney, LaVista, Lincoln, Minden, North Platte, Omaha and Sidney. It also lists former machines in Gothenburg and Lincoln.

For example, the Web site tells you where four different machines are located at the Henry Doorly Zoo in Omaha. Three machines have four different designs for pennies, while one machine has four designs for quarters. One can also find machines at any Cabela's location throughout the Midwest.

My son and I always check the Web site before we travel to see where there are elongated machines close to where we are traveling. Most elongated machines take two quarters and one penny. You can have an inexpensive souvenir of your trip for only 51¢. Collecting elongated coins can be a fun addition to your coin collecting.

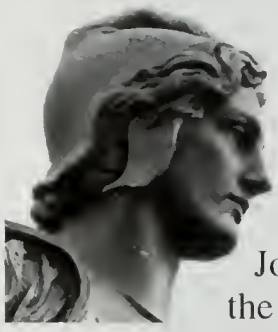
MERCURY STANDS 10 FEET TALL

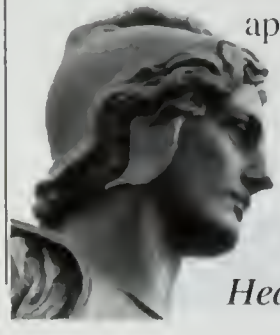
Prototype for Liberty on the 1916-1945 Dime Adorns Baltimore Monument

By Max B. Spiegel



At the southeast corner of Wyman Park Dell, a 16-acre park just south of the Baltimore Museum of Art and the Homewood campus of the Johns Hopkins University, stands the impressive Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument. Unbeknownst to many collectors, however, is that this monument holds an interesting numismatic secret. Designed by Adolph A. Weinman and erected in 1909, this monument - specifically the head of the figure of Bellona - is significant because it served as the artist's main inspiration for the obverse of the Mercury dime.

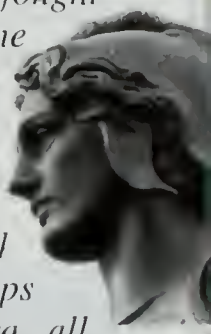
A highly popular, although inaccurately named issue, the Mercury dime was first minted in 1916 during what researcher Roger Burdette calls the "renaissance" of U.S. coinage design. Weinman likely drew upon a variety of sources when he designed the dime - such as his bust of Elsie Kachel Moll Stevens, the wife of poet Wallace Stevens - but his widely praised Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument appears to be the primary model. A side-by-side comparison of the dime and the head of Bellona, the goddess of war, on the monument shows that they are virtually identical, save for the addition of wings.



Head of Bellona.

In 1906 the General Assembly of Maryland passed an act establishing the Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument Commission, which after holding a competition among 11 artists chose Weinman's designs. The contract, dated July 31, 1907, instructed Weinman to:

"make, erect, furnish, complete, and finish in every respect a Monument to commemorate the patriotism and heroic courage of the sons of Maryland who, on land and sea, fought for the preservation of the Federal Union in the Civil War of 1861 – 1865, the said Monument to consist of a sculpted group of three figures with accessories, all in bronze, a pedestal, steps and seat, forming an exedra, all in granite; two bas-reliefs set in the sides of the pedestal, all in marble; inscriptions cut into the pedestal; a pavement of granolithic; and ornamental mouldings, wreaths and cartouche carved into the granite; all to be set complete upon adequate and proper foundations on a plot of ground at the intersecting drives at the head of the Mount Royal Entrance to Druid Hill Park, Baltimore City, Maryland..."



The monument features three bronze figures.

The monument was dedicated Nov. 6, 1909, and hailed as a great success. John R. King, monument commission chairman, wrote to Weinman, "I want to congratulate you on the universal appreciation and approval of your finished Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument erected by the State of Maryland. Not a single discordant note is heard; on the contrary, the opinion of competent art critics is very flattering to you."

Winged Liberty Head dime

The three bronze figures at the top of the granite pedestal are the focal point of the monument. At the center is a Union Civil War soldier turning away from his plow and anvil. Flanking him are two allegorical figures: to his right, Victory, who spreads her wings and raises her right arm; and to his left, Bellona, who stands in front of a fig tree. On one side of the pedestal is a marble relief of a naval battle; while on the other side there is a marble relief of infantry and cavalry. At the back to the pedestal is a relief of a sword, anchor, shield and eagle. The sculptures are about 10 feet tall and stand atop a nearly 12-foot-tall base.

The monument remained in Druid Hill Park until 1959, when it was moved to accommodate the construction of the Jones Fall Expressway (I-83). Since then it has been located in Wyman Park Dell, less than a mile from its former home. It is fitting that diagonally across the park stands the Lee and Jackson Monument—a tribute to the two Confederate generals—which was sculptured by Laura Gardin Fraser. A gifted artist and medalist in her own right, Laura Gardin Fraser was also the wife of James Earle Fraser, designer of the Buffalo nickel.

In January 1915, Assistant Treasury Secretary William P. Malburn told Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo that the dime, quarter, and half dollar would soon be eligible for new designs. McAdoo agreed to have the coins redesigned, but said to "let the mint submit designs before we try anyone else." The National Commission of Fine Arts, however, made it clear that none of Chief Engraver Charles E. Barber's sketches were satisfactory, and it recommended a design competition among a few talented artists. They informally suggested Weinman, Hermon A. MacNeil, and Albin Polasek. Official invitations were sent out on Dec. 28, 1915.

Ultimately, the Mint chose Weinman's designs for the dime and half dollar, and MacNeil's design for the quarter. None of Polasek's were accepted. As Burdette relates in Renaissance of American Coinage 1916-1921, "neither Weinman nor MacNeil made specific statements that any portion of their designs were derived from some ancient or contemporary prototype." He continues:

"the primary prototype for the portrait on the dime was probably Weinman's Union Soldiers and Sailors ... When photos of the dime are compared with the head of Victory from the Memorial, the resemblance is unmistakable. Liberty wears the same partial breastplate and cap as Victory, both have hair curls flowing in a similar manner and matching profiles. The only major differences are the addition of wings on Liberty's cap and the ear coverings of Victory."

Burdette, however, confused the two female figures in the statue, and he mistakenly identifies the figure as Victory. A comparison between Bellona and Liberty shows notable similarities. Both figures have nearly identical facial features, which Weinman appears to have adapted for the Mercury dime. Weinman added the wings to his depiction of Liberty on the dime to represent freedom of thought, but otherwise the heads are nearly identical.

The Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument was Weinman's first major public commission and one of the most significant works of his career. He proudly mentioned it in his resume and the biography that he submitted to the Mint. However, despite its importance to the design of the Mercury dime, the monument has been largely ignored by numismatists. Although the monument is probably not the only inspiration for the Mercury dime, the undeniable similarities clearly show that Weinman referenced the head of Bellona in his design for the dime. This monument, whose connection to the dime was first proposed by Burdette, is virtually unknown among numismatists. Nonetheless, as a precursor to Weinman's popular Mercury or Winged Liberty Head design, the Union Soldiers and Sailors Monument merits increased recognition.

MEET THE AUTHOR

Max Spiegel

Max Spiegel is a senior History and History of Art double-major at the Johns Hopkins University. A native of Brooklyn, NY, Max's four years in Baltimore have introduced him to the rich numismatic history of that city. He is a life member of the Central States Numismatic Society, among others, and collects colonial and early American coins, tokens, and medals.

'11 LITERARY COMPETITION

OPEN to MEMBERS!

As a member of Central States Numismatic Society, you are reminded that The Centinel is constantly in search of worthwhile numismatic material for publication, especially the works and writings of its own members.

Each year a number of members make literary contributions for publication, thereby sharing their personal knowledge of the hobby, adding enjoyment to the lives of our readers - and paving the way for possible special recognition.

Annually since 1969, Central States has honored one or more members whose literary efforts have been judged deserving of recognition. To winners in the senior division go the recently renamed Bradfield / Finner Literary Awards, named in honor of the Elston G. Bradfield and Roland W. Finner. Bradfield, who died in 1977, was the founding editor of The Centinel. Finner died in 2009 and served as editor from 1972-1978 and 2002-2009. Our junior authors compete for the Daniel C. Parker Literary Award. Authors receive nominal payment following publication of their material, and literary awards consist of cash prizes!

Competition for the '11 Bradfield/Finner and Parker awards will close following publication of the Winter, 2010-11, issue, and respective awards will be presented as one of the highlights of the Saturday morning awards breakfast, April 30th, during the 2011 Schaumburg, Ill., convention.

There's plenty of time to work on your entry for the '11 competition!

Questions and inquiries should be directed to the Editor, Box 82125, Columbus, Ohio 43202, or by e-mail: gtebben@columbus.rr.com. Or give him a call: 614-263-1006.

Three Great Seminars

Year 5 of Central States Educational Events

Central States is please to present three great seminars this year, taking in-depth looks at Civil War numismatics, the salvage of a California Gold Rush era shipwreck and topics yet to be determined.

Spring Seminar: Civil War Numismatics

April 10, College of the Ozarks

The clock turns back 150 years to the Civil War at the Central States Numismatic Society's Spring Seminar April 10 in the heart of the Ozarks.

The daylong seminar, co-sponsored by the Ozark's Coin Club of Springfield, MO), will feature presentations on the politics, tokens and paper money of the War Between the States.

Civil War Numismatics seminar speakers will include Wendell Wolka of Greenwood, Ind.; Dennis Haskett of Noblesville, Ind.; and Norm Bowers of St. Louis.

Wolka, known for his entertaining educational presentations on paper money, will talk about Civil War politics, banking and currency. Civil War token experts Haskett and Bowers will discuss the wartime emergency issues and display their extensive collections.

The seminar will be held at the Keeter Center on the campus of College of the Ozarks, about 10 miles south of Branson, MO. The seminar begins at 8 a.m. with a continental breakfast and ends at 4 p.m. There will be a noon break for lunch in a private dining room in the Keeter Center Lodge.

CSNS Education Director Ray Lockwood said, "All Civil War token collectors, paper money collectors and enthusiasts are invited and encouraged to attend."

The Civil War seminar kicks off the fifth year of Central States seminars. The club's first seminar was in the fall of 2006 at Okojobi, IA.

Sunday Numismatic Seminar: S.S. Central America

May 2, Milwaukee, WI

Bob Evans, chief scientist in the discovery and salvage of the S.S. Central America treasure, will reprise his presentation on the Gold Rush era shipwreck from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, May 2, in the Midwest Airlines Center, the day after the Central States convention closes. Last year's seminar following the Cincinnati show awed collectors, many of whom plan to attend again.

In 1983 Bob was recruited to take charge of the historical and scientific research involved in the search for the fabled treasure ship that sank in 1857, taking tons of gold coins, bars, nuggets and dust to the ocean floor.

As the project's chief scientist, Bob

Left: When he speaks, everyone listens ... intently! And such will be the case when Bob Evans, of S.S. Central America fame, brings his daylong "treasure recovery" program to the Milwaukee CSNS convention, Sunday, May 2 became the curator of the treasure and developed techniques to safely remove the decades of mineral and rust deposits obscuring the surfaces of the coins and bars. The results were spectacular. An important numismatic time capsule was revealed, and the thousands of high-grade, mint-state double eagles from the treasure promoted the wider acceptance of responsible coin conservation in the numismatic community.

The treasure also contained 532 gold ingots manufactured by California assayers. As a geologist, Bob was fascinated by these bars, which are really only one step removed from the original material. Assayers took the raw gold dust and nuggets from depositors, melted and poured the gold into ingot form, determined the purity and stamped the ingots with the appropriate information, producing the initial monetary form for almost all gold mined in California during the gold-rush era.

Bob has traveled widely as the curator of the treasure and has appeared on many television programs, including the History Channel and the Discovery Channel. He has taught twice about shipwreck treasures at the American Numismatic Association's Summer Seminars, and his educational programs at numerous numismatic and non-numismatic conventions have been warmly received and widely praised.

Registration deadline is April 19.

Fall Seminar: Topics to be determined

Oct. 2, Hutchinson, KS

Central States Numismatic Society and the Hutchinson Coin Club will conduct a Fall Numismatic Seminar Saturday, Oct. 2, in the Hutchinson First National Bank. Speakers will include former ANA President Bob Campbell, current ANA President Cliff Mishler and current ANA Governor Wendell Wolka. Their topics will be announced later.

Registration includes a continental breakfast and light lunch. The seminar will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 4 p.m.

Details

Registration for each seminar is $10 for CSNS members and $20 for non-members ($10 of which may be applied to CSNS membership).

Send names, addresses and registration fees to Central States Education Director Ray Lockwood, 2075 E. Bocock Rd., Marion, IN 46952. Questions may be directed to Lockwood at sunrayofmarion@aol.com or 765-664-6520.

Badger Strolls Across CSNS Elongated

A keenly detailed Wisconsin badger marches across the Central States Numismatic Society's logo on this year's elongated cent.

Roller Ray Dillard's die work is the latest in a long line of elongateds he has produced for Central States conventions since the 1980s. Club archivist Jack D. Huggins Jr. says over the years host clubs have also produced elongateds for Central States shows.

Elongateds, as usual, will be distributed free at the Milwaukee convention.

Ray is president of The Elongated Collectors and the Michigan State Numismatic Society. Coins from his collection and that of Pete and Christine Morelewicz, curators of the now-closed Squished Penny Museum, were featured in the article "Uncommon Cents" in the February issue of National Geographic.

Coins from his collection were also pictured in "100 Greatest American Tokens and Medals" and "A Guide Book of United States Tokens and Medals," both books by Katherine Jaeger and Q. David Bowers.

Ray said, "I have held an elective office in TEC since 1986. Consequently, I am not only flattered but very pleased that our branch of the hobby has received such prestigious publicity."

He estimates the 2010 Central States elongate will have a mintage of about 6,000.

CODE of ETHICS for the Central States Numismatic Society

(Adopted by the CSNS Board of Governors, October 6, 2007)

Membership in the Central States Numismatic Society is a privilege extended to persons and organizations worthy thereof and is not a matter of right. Such membership can be maintained unless the Board of Governors determines that the conduct of a member has been such that, in the best interests of the Society, his/her membership should be terminated.

For the guidance and instruction of its members, this Code of Ethics is duly adopted by the Board of Governors under the authority vested in it by the Constitution & By-Laws of the Society.

As members of the Central States Numismatic Society, we agree to comply with the following standards of conduct:

1. To support and be governed by the Constitution and By-Laws of the Society, and by such rules, policies and regulations that may be in force from time to time.

2. To practice conduct so as to bring no reproach or discredit to the Society, or impair the prestige of its membership.

3. To base all dealings on the highest plane of justice, fairness and morality, and to refrain from making false statements as to the condition of a numismatic item or as to any other related matter.

4. To neither buy or sell numismatic items of which the ownership is questionable.

5. To conform to the accepted standards of dignified advertising.

6. To take immediate steps to correct any error taken in any transaction.

7. To never sell, produce or advertise a counterfeit, copy, restrike or reproduction of any numismatic item that is not clearly indicated by the word "counterfeit," "copy," "restrike," or "reproduction" incused in the metal or printed on the paper thereof with the exception of items generally accepted by numismatists and not in any way represented as genuine.

8. To represent numismatic items to be genuine only when, to the best of knowledge and belief, they are authentic.

9. To never intentionally misrepresent the grade, condition, provenance or other material fact of numismatic items.

10. To fulfill all contracts, either oral or written, to make prompt payments upon delivery and to return any numismatic items that are not satisfactory.

11. To give aid to members in their quest for numismatic knowledge.

12. To abide by all local, state and federal laws relating to numismatic matters and items and, when applicable, to assist in the prosecution of violators of said laws.

13. To put the welfare of the Central States Numismatic Society above any personal gain.

A breach of this Code of Ethics shall be cause for action by the Board of Governors.
